

Don't Pass the Salt!

5210 Introduction

Children today are consuming too much salt, which can lead to heart problems and health problems early on. Most unnecessary added salt comes from processed foods, breads and cereals. Use the challenges below to understand why too much salt can be harmful for your health and ways you can cut back the amount of salt for you and your children's diets.

US children ages 6-18 years eat an average of about 3,300 mg of sodium a day before salt is added at the table. The 2010 Dietary Guidelines for Americans recommend that children eat less than 2,300 mg per day. That's about 9 in 10 children eating more than the recommendations! So start using less salt today and use the sodium tracker <https://bit.ly/2pUiWDT> and cooking without salt <https://bit.ly/2RRloGz> worksheets to get started.
